Question Assume you are tutoring a beginning accounting student who tells you that the members of the FASB must have a great deal of power because they have the authority to issue standards that dictate accounting procedure.

Required:

Explain why accounting standards are the result of compromise and how such compromises are reached.

Answer In order for a new standard to be issued, a majority of at least a four-to-three vote is necessary. In order for such a vote to occur, the members within the board must negotiate with each other to determine which points are important and which are not. In turn, each board member is influenced by the data and opinions collected from the various interest parties— preparers, users, and auditors— during the multistage process of issuing a standard. This includes discussion memorandums, public hearings, and exposure drafts.

Question Prior to 2009, the FASB issued several types of pronouncements which had differing levels of authority. Explain the differing types of pronouncements, provide a brief explanation as to what changed after 2009 and why is it still important today?

Answer FASB Pronouncements were issued with differing levels of authority. Statements of Financial Accounting Standards had the most authority in regards to specific topics. These pronouncements established the methods and procedures required for specific accounting issues. Interpretations had the next level of authority. The Interpretations provided clarification on unclear or conflicting issues as they related to issued standards. Staff Positions provided more application guidance allowing for limited or narrow revisions of already established standards. After Staff Positions followed Technical bulletins. These were issued due to reporting problems as they related to specific standards. The bulletins provided additional information to clarify, explain, or elaborate as they related to the specific standard. Statements of Financial Accounting Concepts establish the theoretical foundation for financial accounting and reporting standards. Other pronouncements are in the form of question and answers.

Prior to 2009 these pronouncements were hard to follow, numerous to say the least, and many times conflicting. In 2009 FASB introduced the FASB Accounting Standards Codification which housed the over 2,000 standards in one place of reference.

The hierarchy of pronouncements are important today because they are still referenced in accounting literature and as justification for companies to explain their interpretation of GAAP.

Question The SEC has several reporting choices. It can require that U.S. companies use U.S. GAAP in their financial statement filings. Alternatively, the SEC can require or allow U.S. companies to use IFRS in their financial statement filings. Many issues and complexities surround the use of IFRS.

Required:

Identify and discuss three of the potential problems to be considered by the SEC in deliberating this proposal.

Answer Note: Six issues are discussed below. Three should be selected and discussed.

1. Many U.S. companies (particularly smaller ones) filing with the SEC do not operate globally, so they would not see any advantage to using IFRS. If IFRS were required, it would likely be very costly for them to switch from U.S. GAAP to IFRS, thereby affecting their profitability during the conversion period.

2. If IFRS were allowed rather than required and some regulated companies did not switch to IFRS, then there would be differences in the financial statements of regulated companies that used U.S. GAAP and those that used IFRS. These differences potentially affect the ability of investors and creditors in comparing companies.
3. Most U.S. corporations are small companies and do not issue publicly traded securities and therefore are not regulated by the SEC. These corporations These corporation would likely continue to use U.S. GAAP in preparing their financial statements. A switch to IFRS for regulated U.S. companies would create a "dual-GAAP" system in the United States.
4. Accountants, auditors, and financial statement users would have to be trained to understand the impact of IFRS on the preparation of financial statements of companies using IFRS.
5. If U.S. companies have subsidiaries operating in foreign countries, they may be required to prepare their subsidiaries' financial statements according to IFRS for local filings and still have to prepare their financial statements using U.S. GAAP to file with the SEC, which creates costly inefficiencies.
6. Many companies have entered into contracts based on U. S. GAAP. (For example, companies may have borrowed money with "debt covenants" based on U.S. GAAP that restrict their financing activities.) A shift to IFRS may require renegotiating these contracts.

Question Your accounting instructor allows you to look at his grade book in order to verify the points you have received to date in the final course taken by all accounting majors. While looking at your points, you notice that your best friend's score on the last exam was recorded incorrectly. He received a 68 on the test but it has been recorded as an 86 in the grade book. Your friend needs a passing grade in this class in order to graduate. If the correct score is recorded, he might not have enough points to pass the course.

Required:

Discuss the steps you should take to deal with this ethical dilemma using three ethical criteria. You need not indicate the ethical action you would take.

Answer Students may answer in a variety of ways, however, their answers should include the following steps: (1) identifying the stakeholders (the student, the friend, and the instructor) and the student's responsibilities (to him/herself, the friend, and the instructor); (2) discussion of the three ethical criteria, (a) utility: what action would be optimal for all stakeholders?, (b) rights: what action respects the rights of all the stakeholders?, (c) justice: what action is fair and just?; (3) identifying any "overwhelming factors" that might justify disregarding one or more of the three ethical criteria; and (4) deciding if the action to be taken is ethical.
